●Company philosophy To become a "first-call"

When customers have a problem, they know where to call to get an answer. They know where to call to find a path to success. Satake Bussan is committed to continuing to improve its capabilities and to moving forward while offering proposals to respond to changes in the environment, and becoming a "first-call company" which comes to mind as a company to call when customers need something.

●Greetings from the president To keep moving forward

Satake Bussan was established in 1965 to manufacture semi-finished products (18-L cans) and sell them in Yamagata and other regions in Japan for the purpose of establishing a stable supply of abundant processing ingredients produced in Yamagata and contributing to the reinforcement of production in food processing plants. Since our establishment, Satake Bussan has been fortunate enough to work as an agent for exclusive sales of containers (18-L cans and 9-L cans) produced by Shinsei Seikan (former JFE Seikan) throughout the entire Tohoku region. Thanks to our loyal customers, Satake Bussan owns 6,000 m² of land in the Tachiyagawa Industrial Complex and has established functional systems with a materials division and food division. The head office was constructed at the current site in September 1990, and the head office functions were also relocated. The main products of Satake Bussan are canned or bottled nameko mushroom, red cherries, hosotake (Sasa kurilensis), bunaharitake or bunakanoka (Mycleptodonoides aitchisonii), fruits, and wild vegetables under the company brand "Satake." These products are mostly sold in industrial packages as well as for retail packages and as direct deliveries from production sites. With these product lineups, we strive to deliver safe foods as a member of the food distribution industry, which is facing a difficult environment. Also, our Warehouse operation division is conducting backyard distribution work for materials and food products. We appreciate the continuous, loyal support and advice to our company. Satake Bussan is committed to contributing further to the food industry by providing better services and the latest information about food.

SATAKE Yuzuru, representative director and president
